Jo Borrás

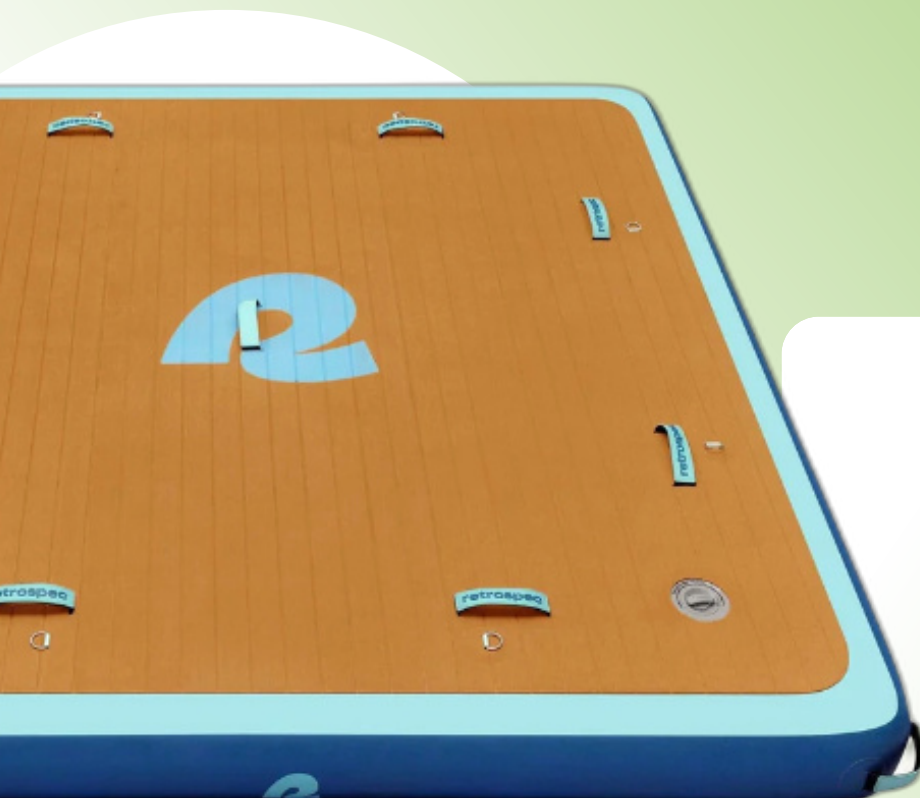

Editor, Director of Partnerships at CleanTechnica

Mid-forties; typical MidWestern "dad," likes to grill on weekends, mow the lawn, ride his bike(s), and yell at the kids' soccer games. Drives a PHEV in Oak Park, IL. #OPAF

Jo loves bikes, and all things bike-related, but lately he's been following his wife and kids into the water for different kinds of outdoor adventures, so he's hoping to find some early summer fun under the tree this year, so he has some warm weather fun to carry him through the cold Chicago winter.

Derek Markham

VP Editorial & Tech, CleanTechnica

Mid-fifties divorced father of 4 living in Silver City NM, has horses, small-scale organic farmer, rural living, drives both an F-250 and a vintage VW, likes e-bikes, in the process of planning an off-grid home for a ranch property.

Derek is a country boy at heart, and loves spending most of his free time outdoors in forests, rivers, and deserts. While horses and farming are his two main passions, he's recently been spending a lot of time target shooting, in preparation for hunting season next year. Starting a small-scale mushroom farm and building an off-grid tiny home are two short- to medium-term goals.
